City Ups Clear Fork Lake Estimate to $1,000,000

COUNCIL VOTES MORE FUNDS TO BUILD PROJECT

Higher Building Costs Cited By Engineer; $200,000 Loan May Be Sought.

Mansfield's Clear Fork water supply project today bore a $1,000,000 price tag.

The project was originally expected to cost about $800,000. Consulting Engineer Harry Smith says, however, that rising labor and material prices and plan changes will boost that cost.

He told councilmen last night that the $800,000 will now buy only the dam and the reservoir.

He estimates that some $200,000 more will be needed to pay for the project's filtration plant as well as to provide the city with additional water until the reservoir is opened —some two years hence.

Biggest Boost for Dam.

Biggest price boost was for the dam. The city estimated it would cost about $300,000 to build it. But the lowest bid the city received for its construction topped that figure by $124,000.

Councilmen almost balked at the dam's high price. Some favored delaying the project until an investigation of bids could be made, or a lower bid sought.

But after two hours' discussion council appropriated $466,954 for the construction of the dam—enough money to cover the two lowest bids.

The vote was 6 to 2 with Councilman Russell Porch and Nelson Swihart voting against the appropriation until the offered price could be studied.

The fund will enable the board of control to accept Roger J. Au's bid of $424,000 or that of John Hill at $464,000. Both are Mansfield contractors.

Engineers Asked Changes.

Smith told councilmen that changes in the dam's structure required by the army engineers and the Muskingum conservancy district increased the price of the dam some $87,000.

This increase, coupled with that by which the lowest bid tops the city's original cost estimate, boosts the dam price some $212,000 over the figure the city had originally thought it would have to pay for it.

Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow said that there is an unencumbered balance of approxi-

City Tries to Un-Clog Traffic on Streets Never Intended to Handle 16,000 Drivers

Mansfield is trying a new system to expedite traffic—and there's no doubt traffic needs expediting.

With 2,443 more drivers licenses issued this year for a total of more than 16,000, it's small wonder that streets—originally built for a city that had little more population than it now has drivers—are getting clogged and jammed.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals has attacked the problem from two angles: "straight through" traffic lights downtown and opening up traffic lanes around cars making left turns.

Thus far the system has made very little dent in the 4:30 to 5:30 p. m. traffic bulge. But Boals is hopeful. The left turn arrangement has only been in operation 24 hours. It calls for left-turn drivers to keep within the yellow lines at intersections and for other drivers to keep to the right of these markings.

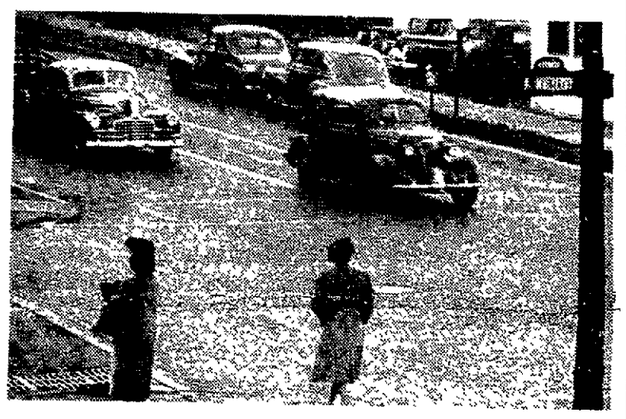
Boals warned that drivers who park in the new yellow-marked non-parking zones will get tickets.

He warned, too against double parking "to mail a letter or run into a store." Double parking in the city's downtown horse-and-buggy street layout can tie up an entire lane of traffic.



Autos use new left turn system.

Boy, 5, Run Over By His Uncle's Car

Five-year-old Albert Steele was seriously injured last night when his uncle's car accidentally backed over the child as he played in the driveway of his Warren road home.

The uncle, Alfred Wymer, 22, of 299 Wayne street, told state highway patrolmen he let the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Steele, out of his car about 7:30 p. m. and thought all the children were in the house when he started to back into the road to turn around.

"Albert must have been behind me," Wymer told patrolmen. "I guess both front and rear wheels must have passed over the child."

Officers said the car apparently passed over the child's stomach and lower chest.

Dr. C. K. Kuehne, resident physician at General hospital, reported the boy's condition as "just fair" today, and said that the child was suffering from internal injuries in the lower chest and upper abdomen.

INJURY RULED ACCIDENTAL

Patrolmen said the child's uncle was questioned, but he was not held since the injury obviously was accidental.

Also injured yesterday was Robert E. Miller, 19, of Shelby, who received a fracture of the right leg and bruises when he was thrown from his motorcycle in a collision one-half mile northwest of the city on State Route 39.

State patrolmen said Miller's cycle collided with the rear of a car driven by Mrs. T. H. McWhirk, 47, Mansfield, R. D. 3, and swerved to the left side of the road, throwing him into a ditch. The motorcycle skidded across the road under a passing Lakeshore Coach company bus, driven by Robert Lee Kinton, 33, of 55 Bentley avenue. Officers said the accident occurred around 5:10 p. m.

Miller was reported in "good" condition at General hospital today.

FILM STUDIOS UNDER GUARD AFTER CLASH

Columbus Residents Hitchhike or Walk as Street Car Tieup Continues.

Sabotage of a power line added to Pittsburgh's woes today as the nation's new strike wave tied up shipping at all major ports, crippled public transportation in five cities, and idled newspapers in Erie, Pa.

Sheriff Walter C. Monaghan reported that a 22,000-volt transmission line of the struck Duquesne Light company of Pittsburgh had been sabotaged by a professional. He said the main line carrying power to the mill towns of Clariton and Wilson had been short circuited, cutting off power last night to 18,000 persons.

Other major strike developments included:

Special sheriff's deputies were sent to Hollywood film studios with the power to make wholesale arrests in the event of more bloodshed on the picket lines.

Prospects for settling the nationwide shipping strike brightened as the government came through with a peace formula designed to overcome a stumbling block in west coast negotiations.

The number of idle workers in Pittsburgh rose to 70,000 as the strike of 3,500 power company employes entered its ninth day apparently no nearer settlement. A steam heating company said heat for 300 downtown business establishments would be cut off tonight.

Walkouts affected transportation at Columbus, O., New York, Chicago, Tacoma, Wash., and Pittsburgh.

Columbus Walks.

Thousands of Columbus workers depended again on a "lift" from a neighbor or walked to their jobs as striking bus and streetcar unionists prepared to renew negotiations with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company.

In Hollywood, deputy sheriffs gathered at MGM studio today to cope with a threatened film strike demonstration which the strikers warned would be on an even larger scale than that yesterday which led to a riot in which 19 men were seriously injured.

Yesterday's outbreak occurred when 1,200 members and sympathizers of the striking conference of studio unions formed a human roadblock across MGM's main gateway and 150 sheriff's deputies charged into the throng, swinging night sticks. The demonstrators fought back fiercely with fists, bricks, bottles and clubs for 10 minutes, then gave up the fight.

About 325 employes of the Tacoma Transit Co. were on strike at Tacoma, Wash., and carbarns were picketed. A strike on the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin electric line posed a transportation problem for 8,000 suburban commuters who work in Chicago.

'Heart's' Dead After 34 Years

NEW YORK —(INS)— The celebrated sliver of embryonic chicken heart which was kept alive by artificial means for 34 years is dead, the Lederle laboratories in Pearl River, N. Y., disclosed today.

Dr. Alexis Carrel, began the "heart's" career on Jan. 17, 1912. He fed it chicken plasmas and extract and thus proved that tissue could be kept alive artificially. But when the "heart" was turned over to Lederle laboratories last May, it turned out that no one wanted to care for it longer since it had no further value to science.

The "heart" was dumped into a sink but if anyone wants to start a new one the secret can be found in many textbooks.

TURTLE FLIGHT DELIGHTS NAVY

Contracts For Undisclosed Number of Craft.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The Navy, highly-pleased at the tactical possibilities of its record-breaking "Truculent Turtle," has contracted with Lockheed Aircraft Corporation for an undisclosed number of the long-range patrol planes, it disclosed today.

Navy officers said squadrons of the planes would be placed at strategic naval bases throughout the world.

The "Truculent Turtle," one of the P2V-type planes, established a new world's non-stop flight record when it landed yesterday at Columbus, O., after a 55¼ hour flight from Perth, Australia. The big blue plane travelled 11,237 miles.

Cmdr. Thomas C. Davies of Cleveland, chief pilot told reporters the plane could have made its intended goal at Bermuda if it hadn't encountered strong headwinds for 9,000 miles of the flight.

As designed for tactical operations, the P2V planes bristle with offensive weapons. Their bomb bays are designed to carry atomic bombs, TNT bombs, aerial rockets or depth charges. They can fire 16 additional rockets from underwing launchers and are equipped with six 20 MM. cannon and four 50 caliber machine guns.

Condemned Nazis Find Facing Death Not Easy

LONDON—(INS)—The 11 Nazis condemned by the international military tribunal for complicity in the deaths of millions "found death not so easy to take as to give out."

These are the words, reported in a Reuters dispatch from the war crimes trial scene, of an American psychiatrist, Dr. G. M Gilbert, who interviewed the men following their sentence.

Dr. Gilbert, who is preparing material for a book on how the Nazis mind works, said:

"Goering didn't find it so funny. He was shaking. He protects himself from reality by consciously going through an act."

The psychiatrist said Hess is a "hysterical schizoid personality. He's very likely to retreat again into his shell, using either physical complaints or mystical ideas to protect himself from reality."

Ribbentrop, he stated, is the "most likely of all the accused to break down before the end.

"Hans Frank came down from the dock fully conscious of his guilt, declaring, 'I deserved it; I expected it.'"

Jodl Appeals.

Meanwhile, Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, chief of the German general staff and Wehrmacht commander in chief, appealed his condemnation to death. His appeal was sent

AMPLE RUBBER

RFC to Buy An Additional 200,000 Tons.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— U. S. manufacturers were assured of ample rubber supplies today under an agreement whereby the Reconstruction Finance Corp., will buy an additional 200,000 tons of the natural product from Great Britain this year.

Estimates of U. S. industrial needs for rubber run between 800,000 and 900,000 tons a year. The new agreement would bring 1946 purchases of raw rubber to between 400,000 and 500,000 tons.

U. S. officials previously decided to keep in production enough synthetic plants to produce 350,000 tons annually.

The British will be paid 20¼ cents a pound at Far Eastern ports or 22¼ cents a pound at U. S. Atlantic ports for the additional 200,000 tons.

FROST HEAVY, MORE LIKELY

Warmer Weather Not Expected Until Tomorrow.

Jack Frost kept a "heavy" date with Richland county's farm crops last night. He is expected to make a return call tonight.

A feeble sun did little to remove the fall crispness from the air today. The noon temperature was 60 with little hope for warmer weather before tomorrow. Yesterday's high was 54 in the area, with a low of 34.

The cold, which settled over Ohio, was drawn into the area by the Atlantic storm which brought six inches or more of snow and frigid conditions to many New England sections.

Residents in Newark shivered this morning in the coldest weather of autumn as the mercury dropped to 28 degrees, accompanied by a heavy frost. Forecasters predicted that frost would nip most of the Ohio valley and the Great Lakes area tonight.

The Associated Press reported high and low temperatures in the area yesterday and early today as: Cincinnati, 62 and 35; Cleveland, 55 and 37; and Columbus, 60 and 31.

Akron Milk Price Is Cut From 18 to 16 Cents.

AKRON—(AP)—A bit of unusual news was reported here today—the retail price of a household commodity was reduced two cents.

The Isaly Dairy Co., operator of 15 local stores, announced its retail price of milk was cut from 18 to 16 cents a quart, effective today, in a move to "hold down milk prices."

As a result, three different retail prices prevailed in the milk market. Stores operated by the Lawson Dairy Co., the city's largest dairy supply firm, sold milk at 14 cents a quart, while most stores charged 18 cents.

MEALS GOING UP

Restaurants to Get Boost; Milk Under Inquiry.

WASHINGTON —(AP) —Prices of milk, butter and cheese came in for their third scrutiny today as OPA boosted ceilings on a variety of items ranging from chocolate to house paints.

Meanwhile those who eat their meals in restaurants, hotels and other public eating places learned that all meat servings soon will cost more. OPA planned to announce just how much more later this week.

The new examination of dairy prices was before a closed session of the price decontrol board. Its three members twice before have decided to leave all dairy products free of price lids, the last time on September 20.

Million Steaks– And We Have None

BUFFALO, N. Y — (INS) — Thomas J. Reese, district OPA director said today that more than one million pounds of steak, roasts and chops are being held in three of Buffalo's storage warehouses. He said 57 other warehouses in the city would be visited by OPA agents to see how much meat they were holding.

A large percentage of the meat is owned by hotels, packing houses, restaurants and retail stores.

B-29s to Undergo Arctic Training

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Gen. Carl Spaatz, chief of the Army Air forces, announced today that a group of B-29 Superfortresses and a squadron of P 51 Mustangs will go to Alaska within the next two months for arctic training. He also said that the B-17 Flying Fortresses now in Europe will be replaced in the near future with the longer range B-29's.

Police Hold Cook In Girl's Illness

GALION — Galion police today are holding Carl Altenburg, 42, St. Louis, Mo., a cook at the Big Four railroad camp 19, on an open charge pending the outcome of an investigation involving the illness of a 16-year-old girl admitted to City hospital Monday.

Alleged to have been brought to Galion by Altenburg several weeks ago from her home at Rossford, O., near Toledo, and to have been living at the camp, the girl will not be released until orders are received from the probate court, Police Chief James Walker said.

Charges Herbert 'Currying Favors'

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Governor Lausche charged today that his Republican gubernatorial opponent, Thomas J. Herbert, "is currying favors of lawless elements" for the sake of political support.

The governor made the charge in answering criticisms of a proposed liquor department regulation which would force permitholders to make identity of managers known to the state liquor board. Lausche defended the proposed regulation as "sound and intended to prevent lawless operators from circumventing the law."

The governor added:

"There is no question in my mind that lawless racketeers and exploiters will not be on the side of Lausche."

Miller Replies to Newman Site Protests

Speaking for the Mansfield board of education, Supt. W. L. Miller today replied to protests over the plan to locate the new Newman school building at the northwest corner of Central avenue and Grace streets.

Miller said, "In going ahead with the purchase of this site and plans to erect a building there, the board is only doing what it promised to do."

He said that on March 19, 1946, he wrote to Mrs. Walter T. McEvoy, president of the Newman school Parent-Teacher association, asking for suggestions as to a site for the new school.

Later, he said, a written reply came from Mrs. William Halvax, P.T.A. secretary, saying that the Newman PTA and Mothers' Club had three suggestions for a site. Mr. Miller displayed the original letter to back up his statement.

Picked Opposite Corner.

First of the suggested school sites was the northeast corner of Central avenue and Grace streets. The board accepted this suggestion but picked the northwest instead of the northeast corner of the intersection because the land was available at a more favorable price, Miller explained.

Second suggestion was the intersection of First and Patton avenues, now favored by the group which recently sent a protest petition to the school board.

Third suggestion was the corner of Dewey avenue and Grace street, a site since chosen for a federal housing project.

Park Group Also Approved.

Miller declared that the board also conferred with Emil Eisen, president of the Liberty Park association which has been instrumental in furthering civic developments in the northeast section of the city.

Both the Park association and the PTA approved the Central-Grace site, Miller declared, and the board accordingly chose that site in July and began the purchase of land.

Miller added that the new site is centrally located in the school district, that it is well located if the district expands, that it will not displace homes, increasing the current housing shortage, and that price was an element carefully considered.

No Meat, Trio Goes to Death Without Steak

WEATHERSFIELD, Conn.—(UP)—Three convicts died in the Connecticut electric chair last night for the murder of a prison guard—one of them without receiving his last request for a steak dinner.

Arthur Tommaselli, 24, who was executed with Raymond Lewie, 19, and James J. McCarthy, 21, had asked for a steak for his last meal. But the request could not be filled because of the meat shortage. Chicken was substituted. Lewie requested link sausage. McCarthy ordered eggs.

The condemned men were electrocuted within 20 minutes in the state's first triple execution in 28 years.

Paper Shortage Inquiry Opened

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A congressional subcommittee set out today to discover the cause of current shortages of paper products.

Members said their chief aim is to check into newsprint supply problems. But they told newsmen they also want to find out why there is a scarcity of cleansing and toilet tissues and similar articles.

Chairman Borden (D-Okla.), called the first two days of hearings this morning, with officials of the OPA and Civilian Production administration as first witnesses.

On Broadway

Marshal Josef Stalin,
The Kremlin, Moscow, USSR.

My dear Marshal: Last week you stated that there was irresponsible war talk—and it was explained later by Pravda that you meant Admiral Halsey and Senator Taft. Unless you mean that as an attack on the White House, you could have meant nothing of the kind. . . . Because Admiral Halsey is under the direct orders of the United States government and Senator Taft's party, the Republican—is patriotically supporting the government's foreign policy. Since you weren't attacking the U. S. government, you were attacking U. S. radio commentators and others in the American free press.

I'm not a diplomat: I talk in plain English—not double Russian.

You ask: Why doesn't the United States get out of China? . . . Well, why don't you? . . . Although you have a treaty with Chiang Kai-shek, you are waging a bloody civil war against China—using everything from artillery to airplanes.

Supposing the British and Americans have no business in Greece? What business have you there? Or in Albania? Or in Czechoslovakia?.

At Dumbarton Oaks, San Francisco and Paris, the rest of the world had to sit on its hands while Russian delegates awaited instructions from the Kremlin—meaning you. This week—after your speech—your instructed delegates (at your direction) redoubled their attacks on the U. S. ambassador. . . . Vishinsky at Paris bitterly charged the U. S. with "unnecessary bombing of Ploesti" and "of making profits while you bled."

I want to debunk that right now. . . . To raid Ploesti the U. S. Army Air Forces suffered one of its heaviest losses in men and planes. . . . And as far as profits go we spent six times more betwene 1941 and 1946 than we spent between 1776 and 1940! . . . We still owe it! . . . How much it helped you—YOU TESTIFIED in a public statement at Teheran when you said victory would have been impossible without us. Who was lying—you or Vishinsky?

Your Gromyko charged (last week) at United Nations that our army was causing uneasiness. . . . That can be debunked in one line. Our army is less than one-eighth the size of yours.

If we did the same thing against you, you would scream that they were acts of war by saboteurs and fascists. So let's cut out the bunk between us, Marshal. We do have something in common—much more hopeful than the power to wage a terrible war against each other. That is our common knowledge that it is better for both of us to come down to earth than to have IT come down on both of our countries.

Fair Enough

NEW YORK — The crop of mawkish photo-art, dramatizing the personal problem of individual veterans who pitch camp with their loved ones in pup-tents, jalopies and culverts is reminiscent of 1919, as reference to the newspaper morgues will show, these touching scenes include picket-signs protesting against the ingratitude of the government toward its heroes, and glimpses of diapers. Usually, the baby leads the cast.

Why do we do such things in our business, anyway?

We have had long experience with the planted story and the self-sympathizing faker but still we pounce on this cheesecake like a chicken on a June bug.

God knows the housing situation is desperate, but only a few specimens with an exaggerated appetite for pity and publicity take advantage of our journalistic weakness for the sort of story that we call H-I or human interest, and we never learn.

If I were on the desk when a reporter came back to tell me that the poor fellow living in a flour-barrel in the park with his wife and infant had spent three years in his country's service, I would send him back to learn how much time he had spent in the guardhouse and what his sergeant or lieutenant had to say. If he happened to be a former officer, I would dig around for some reference on his character and conduct. Upstanding men don't use their wives and babies to rattle tin cups.

If a story, with pictures, came over my desk about a captain or lieutenant toting bags as a bellhop or a bomber pilot driving a cab, I would give it the so-what test. What of it? Maybe he never had any experience in a working job before the war and, anyway, what is wrong with such jobs?

What should the fellow be doing? Dictating to a pretty stenographer in a big office concerning important matters that he knows nothing about, perhaps?

For several years I have been casually acquainted with a bum, born and confirmed, who was caught in the draft, served a few months in camp in the United States, and was discharged, with a disability rating, of course, which makes him a casualty on pension for life. A panhandler by trade, his regular touch is women who seem prosperous, and he can weep at will.

A policeman discovered that our friend held regular meetings with two ladies, who appear to be prostitutes and seem to be keeping him and spends some of his time hanging around handbooks. He also seems to have cashed some government checks issued to other veterans, although that phase is still being investigated. He would look convincingly sad in a picture showing him curled up on a park bench and we are just fools enough to oblige him.

We don't check far enough. Any bum can sing a sad song about a heartless landlord who dispossessed him and his wife and their infant and their little belongings. But what would the landlord say? He might say they were a pair of shiftless tramps who sleep all day and that he won't take a job and, if he should take one, probably would steal the stock and fixtures. They might be filthy, too, and not quite house-broken.

On Anything

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— There was a little guy with a close hair cut, wading around in a sea of federal documents, trying to find surplus radio materials for veterans.

He was head man in charge of the job. For two months he worked alone, while the paper piled up to his hips.

Later the little guy got three assistants, but the papers were piling higher and higher. Soon they were three feet deep on all the desks and three feet deep on the floor.

EVENTUALLY he had piled around him 75,000 separate papers, describing 75,000 different batches of radio and electrical equipment. He also had incoming thousands of orders from colleges, police departments and veterans, who wanted to buy some of the stuff.

The little guy did the best he could. Sometimes he worked at night, shuffling through the papers, trying to fill orders. This was not so easy, because he didn't know where the actual stuff was located. Not even in what states.

FINALLY he stumbled on some luck. A veteran wanted 2,000 radio tubes with which to go into business and, by gollies, the little guy found 2,000 radio tubes listed for sale. Eureka! He put through the orders (eight copies of each).

The latter had to pay his money first. He did pay it. He then got his tubes. Or so he thought. A whopping big box was dropped at his door. He chopped it open and discovered, not radio tubes, but parts for radar sets.

He's still got 'em; the government's still got his money.

THIS WAS no surprise to the little guy. The same thing happened 20 times a month. All over the country his customers got sore about the punk service. They wrote their congressmen.

The big shots had to get somebody to answer the lawmakers' kicks. They turned the job over to the little guy.

HE SUGGESTED to the big brains that it might be a good idea to count their radio sets, so they'd know where they were, before they tried to sell 'em. They said this was an impractical idea. They demoted him. He works in the junk division now.

His name is James E. Waddell. This dispatch is based upon his sworn testimony before the congressional investigating committee of Rep. Roger C. Slaughter of Missouri. The conclusion is obvious: Do not try to buy a radio from your Uncle Samuel; you're likely to receive a case of WAC lingerie or a carved stone bill. Nothing would surprise the little guy now.

OUTLOOK GOOD, DEMS ARE TOLD

Columbus Speaker Says Party Doesn't Need Apologies.

Mansfield and Richland county Democrats were told last night there's no reason for the spirit of "defeatism", that's spreading through the party, and it's good for party harmony that Henry Wallace was removed from the president's cabinet.

"We Democrats have no apologies to make. We are the party of the people, and as long as we keep faith and continue to fight for the common man, we need have no fear for the future of the nation," said Atty. Forrest Smith of Columbus in a talk at a rally at the Liberty park pavilion.

The meeting, which served as an opener for the Democratic campaign in the county, was sponsored jointly by the Young Democratic and Dolly Madison clubs. About 150 attended.

"You can't expect progress from the Republican party," Smith said. "Our democracy is a government for the individual and only a militant Democratic party can carry on that government."

Commenting on the Wallace ouster, W. W. Purdy, Mansfield, Democratic candidate for congress in the 17th district, said: "It's good that Wallace is out of the cabinet. There will be less dissension in party ranks if we remove men of Wallace's type from high office.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson introduced Purdy, L. L. Rinehart, candidate for county commissioner, and Harry Bowman, candidate for state representative. He spoke briefly on the Democratic state candidates.

Mrs. Boyd Wierman of the Dolly Madison club presided at the meeting which followed a dinner.

RESERVE AIR UNIT TO USE CITY'S PORT

Army Planes to Be Sent Here From Cleveland in Officer Training Program.

Former army flying officers from Mansfield and the surrounding area today were offered the chance to pilot army planes which will be sent here from Cleveland as part of a Reserve Officer's training program.

The planes include P-51 Mustangs, AT-6's and AT-11's.

An army request to use Mansfield's port for Reserve Officer's training has been approved by Mayor Roy W. Vaughn.

An officer representing the Eleventh Air Force is to come to Mansfield next week to map initial plans for launching the flying program.

Plan Registration.

Registration places for men who want to participate in the program were to be set up today at four points in Mansfield, Gerald Kunkle, temporary president of the Mansfield squadron of the Air Forces association, said.

They are to be located at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce, Farmers Bank building; the airport, under the direction of Tony Letang; at Yuncker brothers, North Main street, under the direction of Joseph Lesch, and at the Continental Mortgage company offices, Walpark building, under the direction of Eldon Johnson.

Registration offices also are to be set up in Ashland and Shelby, Kunkle said.

Under a plan outlined by Maj. Gen. T. J. Hanley, jr., of the Eleventh air force, planes are to be sent here on a temporary basis until a permanent program is set up.

They will be flown from Cleveland for the training period and then returned there, Gen. Hanley stated in a letter to Vaughn.

Hanley cited advantages which he believes the program has:

1. Mansfield's port would be used for one of the purposes for which it was built; it may speed transfer of CAA facilities from Hayesville; it will permit city officials to "see that military flying will not interfere with commercial flying."

General Hanley said that if the program becomes permanent, "the Army Air Forces will assist financially in the maintenance of the airport."

The program, backed by the local Air Forces' association group and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, is open to men from all parts of the Mansfield area.

Bush of Mansfield and Roy E. Stroup of Mansfield will represent the laymen. All Lutheran ministers and scores of laymen from Ohio will be visitors during the convention.

All sessions will be conducted in Music hall of the Cleveland Auditorium, opening Saturday at 10 a. m. with the service of Holy Communion. The sermon will be preached by Dr. W. H. Greever of New York City, retiring secretary of the national body. Dr. Franklin C. Fry, national president and formerly of Akron, will preside at all business meetings.

Sunday at 4 p. m., a mass rally will be held to hear Dr. S. C. Michelfelder, Lutheran and protestant representative to co-ordinate European relief, who has just returned after a year in Europe, and Dr. Fry, who has twice visited the European scene in the past year.

For the laymen's dinner Tuesday evening, Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder of Washington, D. C., will address the gathering on the subject, "The Church I Love Most in the Country I Love Best."

All phases of the church's work for the past two years will be surveyed as the various boards and agencies gird for the future.

The convention will be asked to endorse either 1948 or 1949 as Christian Higher Education Year and to complete the Lutheran World Action program for $10,000,000 during 1947. A report will be heard on a proposed new hymnal, being sponsored by four Lutheran bodies.

Speeders and Autocides Alone Fail to Improve

Mansfield had less of practically everything in September except speeders and traffic fatalities, the police department's monthly report showed today.

Arrests dropped from 254 in August to 214 last month. The city also had 13 fewer accidents and eight fewer auto accident injuries. September's accident-injury score: 70 and 12.

But September's traffic fatality score of one equaled that of August. August's death broke a four-month string of non-fatal months.

In September, too, arrests for speeding climbed to 36 for an increase of 10 over August while arrests for drunken driving dropped from seven to three.

Even arrests for intoxication skidded from 129 in August to 90 last month. Disorderly conduct charges dropped from 18 to nine.

Number of tickets issued for red light and stop sign crashing climbed slightly, from 44 to 54 in September, but the over-all number of tickets issued dropped from 841 to 709 and ticket fines from $930 to $798.

Number of persons arrested on investigation charges also climbed some from 15 to 21, as did fines and costs collected on traffic fines: $1,259 to $1,387.

Oil Firm to Build Line Across County

County commissioners, the county engineer and the county prosecutor today had approved the request of the Sinclair Refining company for permission to construct a pipeline to carry crude petroleum across Richland county.

The line, six inches in diameter, will cross 23 highways, 17 of them county roads, in its path from the lower end of Sandusky township to the lower end of Weller township.

BUILDING TOPS AUGUST TOTAL

Permits Issued For $400,000 Construction Last Month.

A total of 57 building permits were issued in September to boost building evaluation to $403,595 for the month. This figure is topped only by July's $489,755. But it goes above the August total by $39,000.

Permits for 26 new homes and 12 non-residential structures were issued. New homes totaled $201,300; new non-residential structures, $168,500.

Additions and remodeling work on non-residential structures totaled $26,575 while home remodeling and additions totaled $5,320.

COWS FLOWN TO SHOW

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Seven prize Jersey cows were flown into Columbus yesterday in 12 hours from Ontario, Calif. The cattle were stabled in pairs, heads pointed forward, aboard the two-engine transport. The pilot, James V. Lane of Los Angeles, said they weathered the trip well. The cows will be exhibited here Oct. 9-13 in the National Jersey Cattle association show.

NEED SPONSOR FOR PROGRAM

Committee Seeks Backer For Vets' Project.

With an instructor found for the farm veterans' on-the-job training program, the next obstacle to overcome in realizing GI Bill benefits for some 30 Richland county former servicemen is locating a rural board of education to sponsor the project, it was said today.

Boyd Robinson, county schools superintendent, member of the veteran's agriculture training committee, reported that Richard Jeffery, of Cleveland Heights, has agreed to take the job of instructor, ending the long search for a teacher.

A recent threat to the hiring of an instructor was the state education department's disapproval of a proposed $3,200 yearly salary, plus traveling expenses of $700, for Jeffery. Robinson said Jeffery has agreed to accept $3,000 yearly, plus $600 for traveling expenses, as recommended by the state department of education.

"Now the obstacle is to find a local board of education to act as sponsor. That has been a problem because most of them do not have the money to support the program during the lag in payments from the Veteran's administration," Robinson said.

In other similar cases, the VA has been three to four months late in reimbursing boards of education, resulting in tying up thousands of dollars of board of education funds, Robinson said.

The agriculture committee has approximately 30 ex-soldiers who want to participate in the on-the-job farm training program. Another 30 are already drawing GI Bill benefits by working as their own farm owners or operators under another section of the law.

MRS. BERRY DIES

Widow, 69, Succumbs Today After Long Illness.

Della Sherer Berry, 69, widow of Ernest L. Berry, died early Wednesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Bittinger, 120 Kentucky avenue, Lincoln Heights, following a lingering illness.

She was born near Johnsville in Morrow county Sept. 9, 1877, and had lived in Mansfield since 1920. She was a member of the South Main Evangelical church.

Surviving besides the daughter, Mrs. Bittinger with whom she made her home, are another daughter, Mrs. Florence Grogg of Glendale, Ariz.; a brother, Marion Hildebrand of North Canton; two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Shafer of Johnsville; and Mrs. Clara Myers of Mt. Gilead; four grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where it will remain pending completion of funeral services. Time of services will be announced later.

TRUMAN TO SPEAK

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Truman expects to make two addresses to the nation bearing upon the November elections. Both addresses, according to present tentative plans, will be broadcast from Washington.

GHOST TOWNS—

Although it's only a little over 40 years old, a map of Ohio in the possession of County Dog Warden Harvey Hill shows the names of several Richland county communities unknown to Hill, who gets around the county quite a bit. Published in 1904, the map lists such Richland county towns as Mace, in Butler township, Crimson, in Mifflin township, Davis, in Worthington township, Dott, in Worthington township and Shaffer's Siding, in Jefferson township. The map was owned by Hill's mother, the late Mrs. Margaret Hill Masters.

TRAFFIC TIEUP—

One motorist came near spoiling all of Safety Director Frend Boals' high hopes for smoother operating traffic at Mulberry and Fourth streets about 5:30 p. m. yesterday. He got tangled up with another car, thus stopping traffic south on Mulberry and confusing drivers who had hoped to turn from Fourth to Mulberry. Most motorists, noting the jam-up, just didn't make the turn, leaving the two tangled up drivers to argue out their hurts.

SURE SIGN OF FALL—

As long as there are school children and school rooms the annual autumn search for shiny buckeyes and frost-reddened leaves will be made. Helped along by the unseasonably cool weather, school children of the first and second grades have started their collections a little early this year and school rooms attest to their efforts. Using the real leaves for patterns, the children have reproduced nature's own bright coloring in paper models, which can now be seen on school windows, along with strings of buckeyes, gathered after school in wood lots near the city.

Brass, Brains, Belly Called 3 Bs of Speech

The three "b's" of music (Bach, Brahms and Beethoven) were transposed into the three "b's" of public speaking (brass, brains, and belly), in a talk by Rev. Matthew Madden, pastor of the Mansfield First Congregational church before the Rotary club at its noonday meeting yesterday.

Brass, meaning correct appearance and body control; brains, meaning correct vocabulary, and belly, meaning correct production of tone, were all discussed and illustrated as the three essentials of good speaking by Rev. Madden.

The best advice for speakers, Rev. Madden concluded, was "have something to say, say it, and sit down."

The club sang "Happy Birthday" for its October birthday members who were introduced by Ed Sutter. Those receiving the serenade were Carl Henkel and John Cook.

Dr. W. E. Wygant was welcomed back to the club after an absence due to illness.

SPEAKS AT YOM KIPPUR RITES

Robert Raab of Hebrew Union College to Be at Temple.

Robert Raab of the Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati, will conduct Yom Kippur services at the Temple Emanuel, beginning Friday evening with the sermon, "The Spirit of the Hour."

From sundown Friday until sundown Saturday, Jews everywhere will observe Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement, regarded as the most sacred and solemn day in the Jewish year.

Raab's Saturday morning sermon will be entitled, "The Challenge of the Crisis." Speaker and services were announced today by Martin R. Goodman, president of the Emanuel temple.

Unlike other Jewish holidays, the Day of Atonement has no historical background. It is a day given over to introspection and contemplation. On the New Year, the Book of Life was opened. On the Day of Atonement the Book is sealed. Before the Book is closed, Jews everywhere will fast and pray in order that they may be written down for a good life.

The usual Yizkor, or memorial service for the departed, will also be held on the Atonement day, with prayers recited in their behalf.

Zane Verden Duncan, of Nankin, enlisted for a period of four years and was transferred to the Great Lakes Naval training station as an apprentice seaman.

Pro Grid Warfare Flares In Chicago

CHICAGO —(INS)— Football followers who have witnessed the eruption of open warfare between George Halas of the National league Chicago Bears and his rival, John Keeshin of the All-America conference Rockets, looked to Halas' lawyers today for the next play on Keeshin's $250,000 libel suit.

Keeshin filed the suit against owner-coach Halas yesterday, alleging he had been slandered by Halas.

Their controversy began Monday when Bears' quarterback Sid Luckman, one of pro football's ace passers, announced he had been approached by Keeshin to become player-coach of the Rockets at $25,000 a year.

Later Luckman rejected the offer as Halas issued a statement describing Keeshin's actions as "hoodlum tactics."

Baseball History Rolls To Flatbush Tomorrow

By CHARLES EINSTEIN

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—The caravan of baseball history rolled on to Brooklyn today while all St. Louis rejoiced over the Cardinals' first game playoff victory over the Dodgers, and made happy plans for the 1946 world series.

There was ample cause for emotion on the banks of the swirling Mississippi. For yesterday, in the opening game of the National league pennant playoff, the Cards outclassed the Dodgers, 4 to 2.

To begin with, there was slender Howard Pollet, the National league's leading pitcher, with his grim heart and throwing arm. Pollet braved the pain of a strained muscle beneath his pitching shoulder to go the limit, strewing eight Dodger safeties along the way.

Or one could select freshman catcher Joe Garagiola, who produced three of the Cards' 12 hits, batted in half of their runs, and handled Pollet with the poise of a baseball veteran.

Enos Slaughter, who processed two of the Cards' scoring outbursts with important singles, cancelled the most serious Dodger threat with a jet-propelled throw which cut down Brooklyn catcher Bruce Edwards at third in the seventh inning with one out and the Dodgers only a run behind.

In short, it was the Cardinal team as a whole which snapped out of a two-week slump to pepper Durocher's pitching "big five" —Ralph Branca, Kirby Higbe, Hal Gregg, Vic Lombardi and Rube Melton.

The scoring itself started when singles by Moore, Slaughter and Garagiola produced a Cardinal run in the first. Brooklyn got that back in the third on Howie Schultz's homer into the left field bleachers, his third non-stop blow of the year.

Branca left hurriedly in the Cardinal half of the third when a walk to Musial, a single by Slaughter, Kurowski's infield out, and successive singles by Garagiola and Harry Walker gave the Cards two runs and a lead they never relinquished.

Consecutive singles by Pee Wee Reese, Edwards and Schultz scored a run for the Bums in the seventh, making it 3 to 2 in the Cardinals' favor.

The Cards iced it in the seventh when Musial slapped a triple off the right field pavilion and scored on Garagiola's hit.

Deacon Signs With Indians

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians' acquisition of gray-haired Bill McKechnie, recently resigned manager of the Cincinnati Reds, to bolster their coaching staff was hailed today as the first spark of strategy to blast the Tribe out of the second division.

McKechnie's signing of a two-year contract at an undisclosed figure was announced last night by Indian President Bill Veeck. Greatly disappointed by his club's sixth-place finish this season, Veeck had said he was ready to trade virtually all his players except Pitcher Bob Feller and Manager Lou Boudreau in order to build a better club for 1947.

The 59-year-old deacon, four-time pennant-winning pilot, was expected to come here from his Wilkinsburg, Pa. home soon for conferences with Boudreau and Veeck.

During his 24 years as a manager, McKechnie piloted two teams to world championships—the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1925 and the St. Louis Cardinals in 1928. During his nine years with the Reds, the Cincinnati team won the National league pennant in 1939 and 1940.

Mansfield Sophs Swamp Marion

Mansfield sophomore football team gave the Marion Harding reserves a decisive drubbing last night at Stadium field, 40 to 0.

On the third play after the kickoff Bob McKown skirted left end and raced 50 yards for the first score. John Corcoran, tackle, converted the extra point.

Louie Gregorio scored the first of his two TD's in the closing minutes of the first quarter when he went off tackle from the four yard stripe. Corcoran converted.

Joe Letizia tallied the third marker on an off-tackle smash and Corcoran again converted. Gregorio came back for his second TD a few minutes later on a 10-yard smash.

In the second half Harry Osbun and Ken Carver hit pay-dirt and Anthony Taddeo, guard, placekicked the extra point.

DEHAVEN POLISHES MADISON DEFENSE

Mansfield Madison is getting plenty of work on defense this week in preparation for its second Northeastern Buckeye league contest against a strong Rittman eleven Friday night at Rittman.

From the scouting information that Coach Jeff DeHaven has received the Rams opponents are much better than the scores have shown so far this season. Rittman defeated Millersburg, in a league game, to start its 1946 gridiron campaign with a clean slate, but dropped the last two contests to Orrville and Medina.

Orrville trampled the Rittman squad 40 to 0, but DeHaven said that some costly fumbles in the first half paved the way for Orrville. In the second half Rittman held the Orrville aggregation scoreless.

DeHaven is stressing defense and blocking in the scrimmage sessions and said that he was pleased with the way the line opened up the Orrville forward wall, but that the Rams needed a little brushing up on their downfield blocking.

The Rams will be out-weighed again this week but so far have held the opposition to a stand still as far as running plays have gone. Coach DeHaven has had a couple long drills this week and hopes to eliminate these mistakes before Friday's contest.

Both Ken Gabor and Captain Jack Cleckner received injuries last Friday but will be ready for the Rittman game.

Rittman has a decided weight advantage over Madison but the Rams top the speed department.

Coach Bill Kopcial's Madison reserves defeated the Bellville juniors 26 to 0, Monday afternoon. Dick Broach was the individual star when he went off tackle twice to score on a 30 and 40 yard run.

Eugene Riblet reversed his field and went around right end from the Bellville 20 yard stripe to score the third TD, while Fred Durig smashed through center from the 30 to add the fourth score. Ray Bader converted two extra points for the Rams juniors.

PILES ARE NEVER "MILD"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves, instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Neun Takes Job Managing Reds

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Johnny Neun, 26th field pilot of the Cincinnati Reds, and his new boss, General Manager Warren Giles, today arranged tete-a-tetes during the World Series to discuss nursing back to health the sixth-place Reds.

Signing of Neun, 45-year-old acting manager of the New York Yankees, to direct the Reds in 1947 and 1948 was announced by Giles yesterday.

A southpaw first baseman in his playing days, Neun made his major debut with Detroit in 1925. He was with Boston in the National league in 1930 and 1931 before joining the Yankee organization as a player for International league Newark in 1932. He became a Yankee coach after his farm club won pennants in the mid-Atlantic, Piedmont and International leagues.

UMW FEARS LABOR CURBS

Officers Single Out 12 Senators and Representatives.

ATLANTIC CITY —(AP)— Pronouncements of the United Mine Workers (AFL) reflected alarm today over the threat of legislative curbs on labor.

Fear of labor legislation was voiced in the opening speech of Vice President John O'Leary, presiding in the absence of President John L. Lewis, who was ill in Washington. The same fear was expressed in the officers' report signed by Lewis, O'Leary and Secretary-Treasurer Thomas J. Kennedy.

The officers' report singled out 12 senators and congressmen who were described as leaders of a coalition hostile to labor. They were Senators Ball R.-Minn.), Taft (R.-Ohio), Wherry (R.-Neb.), Byrd (D.-Va.), Hatch (D.-N. M.), and Ellender (D.-La.) and Reps. Smith (D.-Va.), Cox (D.-Ga.), May (D.-Ky.), Halleck (R.-Ind.), Arenda (R.-Ill.), and Brown (R.-Ohio).

"Every union man and woman in America should scan carefully the voting record of each congressman and senator up for election this year," the report said. "Another reactionary congress, such as the 79th, will see the hands of your leaders tied and your rights unprotected."

Stan Finds Friendly House Keeps a Fellow Off Street

"It's a fine place to keep fellows off the streets and out of trouble!"

That's how Stan Schneider, 12, feels about the Friendly House.

"It's a nice place to go to," Stan went on. "You can meet kids your own age and make a lot of friends there. There's a dancing club if you want to learn to dance. The fellows can play basketball or learn woodworking. Everyone learns to work and to play together."

Stan, who's been attending the Friendly House regularly since he started kindergarten at the age of five, rates the Junior Optimist club as his favorite Friendly House group.

"It's a fine club—it's sponosed by the Senior Optimists here, and it gives a fellow a lot of opportunities," he went on. "The Junior Optimists have basketball leagues and the winning team of each season always gets a trophy.

Stan's been to Hidden Hollow camp each of the last four years but he's especially anxious about next summer. Stan takes his cornet playing pretty seriously and there's a possibility that the camp may have a band next year.

Shelby Reservoir To Get Additional Fish

SHELBY—Approximately 5,000 more pounds of fish have been ordered to stock the city reservoir which was closed to public fishing this week until next June 16, it was announced yesterday by Mayor Frank Long.

Ordered through Robert Shortliff, Lake Erie district state enforcement officer, the fish will include mostly crappies and some pickerel, largemouth black bass, perch and other species. The order will be filled by commercial fishermen along Lake Erie.

Also placed in the city reservoir in recent weeks were hundreds of largemouth black bass and crappies secured in the 60 gallons distributed by the federal government through the cooperation of J. Harry McGregor, 17th district congressman.

In addition, more black bass from the state hatcheries and St. Mark's lake will be placed in the reservoir this fall to complete the re-stocking program locally, John Gray, Shelby fish division president said yesterday.

The Shelby division stocked the reservoir with approximately 5,300 pounds of fish in the spring before it was opened to public fishing. An additional 1,600 pounds were added this summer, and more than 1,000 free permits were issued to fish in the reservoir, Gray said.

In addition to Gray, the fish division includes: Dow Horner, vice president; and Jack Ward, secretary-treasurer. Dr. J. F. Winans is president of the Shelby Conservation association.

GALION SOLONS GET COMPLAINTS

Water Employes Ask to Work Seven Days Weekly.

GALION — City council heard complaints about speeding, the need for more city patrolmen, and other problems at a lengthy meeting last night.

Four employes of the water treatment and filtration plant asked council for permission to work seven days a week, waiving all claim to time and one-half for the seventh day as specified by ordinance. This request was placed on file because council members decided it should be presented to the union which represents the workers.

Second reading was given the ordinance which will provide for a 90-day probationary period for city firemen after which they will be given full pay on the same scale as city patrolmen.

The transfer of $2,632 from various funds of the city to the police, fire and service departments was authorized in a resolution which was passed.

Council also passed an ordinance amending the annual appropriation ordinance transferring $16,425 from the hospital fund to various hospital funds; $29,360 from the electric light fund; $8,430 from the water fund; $8,000 from the gasoline tax fund, and $570 from the garbage collection fund to various other funds.

Mayor William Amann's report for the month showed collections totaling $777.30.

A petition was approved which was signed by 13 property owners asking for installation of a sanitary sewer on a section of Murray street, and on High street.

Council also granted payment of a bill for $20 to George Coble for legal service, and another bill paid to M. A. Caldwell in the amount of $8 for equalizing assessments on the South Street sewer.

ALIKE YET UNLIKE

Be not too ready to believe; Appearance may your eyes deceive. —Peter Rabbit.

How true that is Peter Rabbit found out at the Smiling Pool when he saw one of the Heron family all in white and thought it was Cousin Egret whom he had met at the Big River the day before. Peter doubted his own ears when the big white bird declared he wasn't Cousin Egret, and that Peter hadn't seen him at the Big River the day before for the very good reason that he hadn't been there. Yes, sir, Peter really doubted his own ears.

"But — but" —— began Peter. Just then he looked up and saw a big bird with broad wings circling overhead. Peter made a frantic leap and dived under some big ferns. Who but a Hawk would be circling like that? Then he peeped out to see which of the Hawk family it was, Redtail or Redshoulder. From the size he was sure it was one or the other. It was neither.

"Ol' Mistah Buzzard!" exclaimed Peter, a wee bit provoked that he had run needlessly, yet thankful, too, that it was no one to fear.

Mr. Buzzard came down on the bank near the white Heron. "Well, well, well!" he exclaimed. "Ah didn't expect to find yo' over here. No, suh, Ah didn't expect to find yo' here, Brer Heron. The sight of yo' does mah ol'eyes good. It does so. Of course, yo' is too young to know me, but your folks are old friends of mine. Ah see them every winter when Ah gets back to the Sunny South. Yo' is a long way from home fo' one just starting out in the Great World. Yes, suh, yo' is so."

All this Peter Rabbit overheard. You should have seen his ears. They were straight up and just as wide open as he could get them. On his face was a look of puzzled wonder. What did Ol' Mistah Buzzard mean? He talked as if that Heron had been born this very year, but how could that be? He was just about to hop out into the open and ask when Ol' Mistah Buzzard spoke again.

"Ah just left Mis' Buzzard talking with your cousin by the Big River," said he.

"Which cousin? Yo' know Ah done have a lot of cousins," replied the Heron.

"True," said Ol' Mistah Buzzard. "True enough. Yo have so. Several of them make their homes up here."

"Ah don't see why," interrupted the Heron.

"It was Egret, Cousin Egret. Yo' all look a lot alike in your white coats," said Ol' Mistah Buzzard, taking no notice of the interruption.

"Don' think that Ah hasn't found that out!" exclaimed the white Heron. "Seems like Ah is always being taken fo' Cousin Egret. Only a few minutes ago a foolish Rabbit called me Egret, and Ah reckon he didn't believe me when Ah said Ah wasn't Egret. He said he had met me and talked with me over by the Big River yesterday. He hadn't, fo' Ah wasn't over by the Big River yesterday, but he didn't believe me when I said so." Peter's ears should have burned, but of course they didn't. That is just the way of speaking, you know. But Peter did feel foolish, very foolish indeed.

Ol' Mistah Buzzard nodded his bald red head. "Some folks have eyes but don' see," said he. "Ah suppose it is the white coats. That is all folks see, the white coats. They know Cousin Egret always wears white, but few seem to know that yo' wear white when yo' start out in the Great World. So when they see one of the fam'ly in a white coat they think right away that it is Cousin Egret."

"Ah should think they could tell by the size. Cousin Egret is bigger than Ah am," said the Heron.

Ol' Mistah Buzzard nodded. "True," said he. "Seeing you'all together, folks might see the difference. They should. They cert'nly should, but a lot of them would see nothing but the white coats. Seeing yo' alone is different. Yo' looks bigger than yo' really are. Yo' do so. Ah reckon it is a mistake easy to make."

"But folks have only to look at the bills of we uns to tell us apart," protested the other.

Peter stared at the Heron's bill. It was black

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

Can you take a few more tales of tipplers? . . . One of them explained to a flabbergasted judge, "The whole thing is the fault of the bad company I got into. I had a whole bottle of Scotch and was with four muggs who don't touch a drop!"

Another explained a multitude of cuts and bruises, "I was carrying a drunk home—and he dropped me." . . . An awed bystander watched the great W. C. Fields in action, and asked, "Don't you ever get the D. T.'s?" "That's hard to say, my chicadee," responded Fields. "In these parts it's impossible to say where Hollywood ends and the D. T.'s begin."

Ex-Commissioner Valentine told a banquet audience, "I'll say one thing for habitual drunks: when they sober up, they keep both feet on the ground. They can't lift 'em!"

Shortly after Mike's funeral, a friend called on his widow, Norah. "I've got the lazy good-for-nothing working at last," Norah said. "What talk, Norah," said her friend, "and him dead a week." "It's true," Norah insisted, "I've got his ashes in an hour glass."

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, October 3.

AFFAIRS on all sides continue to move at a merry pace and under high pressure, with exceptional adventures and objectives moving in "new highs," provided all activities are kept on a practical, sane, and reasonable basis and not plunged into tricky and treacherous predicaments by overoptimism, dreams, delusions, vague "hunches" or the duplicities and schemes of those in high places.

Pursue progressive ideas and plans, but keep alert, enterprising and sound, for splendid and lasting results and rewards.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a lively and exciting year, with affairs moving to high tempo and with enterprise, initiative and personal exhilaration, all with definite march upon cherished objectives. Yet all efforts must be centered on sound and practical methods, patterns and tactics, and not based on overzealous acts or spectacular "hunches," or vague or elusive assistance from designing and scheming personages, with an axe to grind, or other sinister and sordid snares.

Keep alert, free and work hard toward definite objectives.

A child born on this day is well equipped for a constructive, profitable and enterprising life, if it will steer clear of plots, schemes, or its own elusive and irresponsible urges.

Barclay On Bridge

Strategy in war consists largely of adapting your moves to estimates of relative strength between your own forces and those of the enemy at various places and in various respects. It is the same in bridge. If you are playing in a tournament and a particularly strong pair—stronger than your own—comes to your table, the case may call for treatment different from what you would usually do against your equals or against an inferior combination.

In a big duplicate pair game, most of the West players did their early bidding the same way as West in the first sequence above. They went on in similar vein, some reaching 4-Spades and some 3-No Trumps. And not one of those entries made his game contract.

At the remaining table, West was not a very experienced duplicate contestant, nor was his partner. But he did consider himself a fairly smart hombre. Against his pair at the time were a couple of famous national champions. He decided that the best way to give luck a chance for a good score, when he felt he could not earn it by sheer skill, was to underbid deliberately. His hope was that this was one of those hands that looked good for a lot of tricks, but would not produce them.

He realized that practically everybody would double with his big hand, so he purposely underrated it when he made a mere overcall. Then he dropped the bidding after East's diamond takeout of No Trumps, since East did not jump. As it developed, he thus got a clear top score, as 10 tricks were taken at diamonds, the only plus for any East-West pair.

COST OF CLEAR FORK LAKE GOES UP TO MILLION

Council Votes More Funds to Build Water Supply Project; May Borrow $200,000.

mately $507,000 in the Clear Fork fund.

Assuming that the city accepts Au's bid, that will leave about $83,000 in the fund—enough, Smith says, to complete the clearing of the reservoir land and the relocation of certain roads but not enough to build the filtration plant.

May Borrow $200,000.

He said that the city will have to use some of the $275,000 in excess water department funds and to "borrow" about $200,000 to complete the filtration plant.

In addition, he said that the city's water supply is even now dangerously low and plans are underway to boost that supply until the reservoir is completed. This will further increase the project's cost.

He said the city is using as much water now as it was expected to be using by 1950 and pointed out that there will be no water in the Clear Fork reservoir until "two years from now."

Explaining to councilmen some of the plan changes required by the army and the conservancy district, Smith said that the city has to add four feet to the height of the dam, and to change the thickness of the spillway from one to two feet.

Must Abide by Requests.

They also required a stronger core for the dam and for pilings to be erected in certain portions of the structure, he said.

Smith said that, in his opinion, these changes were not necessary but pointed out that the city had to abide by the requests of the two agencies. He said about all the changes did was to "add excessively to the cost."

Councilman Porch raised the strongest objection to the bid submitted for the dam contract. He was for delaying appropriating the funds to cover the contract until further checks of the bids could be made.

'On Thin Ice'

It was argued by other councilmen, however, that the project had been delayed too long already and Mayor Roy W. Vaughn said that "we are on thin ice as regards water supply and something must be done soon about the dam."

Smith said that he "didn't anticipate any lower bids" if the contract was re-advertised. He said the project's opening has already been pushed two years ahead because "we have been slow in starting" and because of an expected delay in delivery of materials.

Already some $173,000 has been spent to purchase land for the reservoir, designed to increase the city's water supply by some three billion gallons a year. A total of $200,000 is expected to be spent for land, $55,000 for relocation of oil and power lines and some $35,000 for engineering fees.

Nazis Decide Death Not Easy

to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower through Frankfurt, headquarters of U. S. forces in the European theater.

The general shock in Nuernberg military circles over the death sentence meted out to Jodl seemed heightened by the acquittal of Franz Von Papen, former diplomatic ace, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former economics minister, and Propagandist Hans Fritzsche.

Signed Armistice.

Military circles pointed out that it will seem incongruous to have a signatory of the armistice hanged on the gallows.

Gen. Jodl was one of the signers for Germany of the unconditional surrender document at Rheims.

Col. Burton Andrus, prison commandant, redoubled his vigilance inside the prison against possible suicide attempts.

Special preparations are being made to prevent any repetition of the Mussolini body stealing. Only a few persons will be aware of the actual burial spot after the condemned are executed, probably Oct. 16.

Criticize Verdict.

BERLIN — (AP) — Berlin newspapers — American and British-licensed as well as Russian-controlled — maintained today that Hjalmar Schacht, Franz Von Papen and Hans Fritsche, though acquitted by the international military tribunal at Nuernberg, are "guilty in the eyes of the German people."

'AH, THAT VON PAPEN'

LONDON — (INS) — The comment of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, United States Army chief of staff, on the war crimes verdicts was brief.

Arriving at Prestwick airport on his return from Germany, the man who was allied supreme commander during the war sighed and said:

"Ah! That Von Papen, he gets out of everything."

Pravda Applauds Nuernberg Verdict

LONDON —(UP)— The Moscow Newspaper Pravda, Communist party organ, applauded the Nuernberg trial verdict today as an expression of post-war collaboration among the Big Four.

A Weak, Run-Down Feeling Is Often A Warning

That The Red-Blood Is Getting Low

If you do not feel like your real self, do not have the urge to be up and doing, why not check-up on your blood strength? Look at the palms of your hands, your fingernails, your lips, the lobes of your ears—are they pale and off color?

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways. Lack of appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities by many tests of the blood have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Superstitions die hard—but a discouraged GI reports that not even a haunted house is for rent.

The colleges are so crowded that students are reported as overflowing the football fields and forced to take refuge in the classrooms.

Among the miracles of modern surgery is discovery that removal of part of the brain is no handicap—in fact it might be turned to advantage in some branches of leadership.

FBI Head Warns Against Communism

WHEN such a high authority on subversive activities as J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, warns the nation against the deep inroads which Communism is making in the United States it is time for a public awakening to this danger, rather than to continue to treat it lightly.

It was at the American Legion's twenty-eighth national convention, in San Francisco, that Mr. Hoover made reference to "the growing menace of Communism in the United States," and said that "in our vaunted tolerance of all people the Communists have found our Achilles heel."

"We are rapidly reaching the time," he said, "when loyal Americans must be willing to stand up and be counted"—making what is regarded as the most outspoken attack on Communistic activities that has ever been voiced by a federal official.

An interesting observation, and one that appears fully justified by the record of its consistent Americanism, is Mr. Hoover's comment: "I am pleased to observe that Communist attempts to penetrate the American Legion have met with failure."

Extent of infiltration of the Communist element into labor organizations; and the effectiveness of this disrupting influence on the national economy, has been obvious since the end of the war, and its potentialities—unless curbed—may well be feared by all who are hopeful of perpetuating the form of government which these proponents of an alien "ism" are attempting to overthrow.

As head of the FBI, Mr. Hoover is in position to learn more about the secret machinations of these un-American malcontents than has yet become common knowledge, and the fact that he considers it of sufficient importance to bring it to public notice as a "formidable foe" evidences need for watchfulness—and action.

This Is National Newspaper Week

DURING this annual observance of National Newspaper week it seems scarcely necessary to repeat that giving recognition to the part that newspapers play in furtherance of the welfare of their own communities and of their country is only a small part of the purpose of this emphasis on the newspaper—large or small—as "The Voice of Freedom, Guardian of Liberty."

One of the most serious deterrents to international understanding has been the lack of a free press in some of the countries in which a dictatorial government deemed it dangerous to permit its people to become fully informed on either internal or external affairs.

One of the greatest contributions to American upbuilding has been the freedom of expression accorded under the Bill of Rights adopted as amendments to the Constitution 157 years ago.

Each day millions of copies of newspapers are distributed in large and small cities, towns, villages and throughout rural areas—so that at least one is in convenient reach of every literate person. This represents an all-time high in newspaper circulation and evidences acceptance of newspapers as the only adequate medium of mass communication.

In the concluding sentence of his salute to Newspaper week, President Truman said: "Upon it (the newspaper) now rests the tremendous responsibility of solving the problems of peace. I know well that this responsibility will be met in full."

And the effort of The News-Journal, as heretofore, will be to help all worthy causes, to keep readers fully informed—so that they themselves will be able to make decisions required in the process of self-government—and to serve the community of which it is a part to the best of its ability.

Difficulties arise, as with the present shortage of newsprint, but everything possible is done to meet whatever conditions develop, and all publishers recognize service to their patrons — readers and advertisers — as their first obligation.

Novel Test of Driving Skill

OFFICIALS at Philadelphia's Franklin Institute have been testing automobile drivers' capabilities by a device called a "driverator," which throws motion pictures of traffic situations before a driver seated in an automobile.

He reacts with wheel, brake and clutch, and is scored. Only four per cent made 100. The others were quite bad. Institute officials were discouraged. They decided drivers needed a great deal of training.

On the eve of the new hunting season, the Detroit News repeats the warning: "Never shoot at the wild animal while it is lighting a cigar."

Word comes that the deposed Henry Wallace is receiving 800 letters a day—some in the English language, perhaps.

LOOKS LIKE YOU GOT A HITCH-HIKER

South Carolina GI 'Speaks Up' In Behalf of His Home-State Buddies

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Senator Jim Mead, now seeking to retire Governor Tom Dewey from the top job in New York state, was honored last week at a cocktail party given by members of the Mead committee—formerly the Truman committee, now the Kilgore committee.

One of the early arrivals was General Harry Vaughan, the president's military aide. Glancing around the room, Vaughan immediately began to kid Mead because none of his senatorial colleagues had yet shown up. A committee aide countered that most members of the committee are busy campaigning for re-election, with one of them helping Jimmie Byrnes in Paris.

Vaughan apparently had forgotten that Senator Tom Connally of Texas is a member of the committee, and remarked: "I seem to remember that Tom has not been the most constant participant in the doings of the committee, anyhow.

"Tom comes around when you boys have a Texan on the stand," Vaughan continued. "Any time you wanted to get Tom to a hearing, all you had to do was call Jesse Jones, and you'd be sure to have Tom there to hold Jesse's hand and serve as counsel for the defense."

Senator Mead remarked that he has always been impressed by the loyalty of Texans to each other and Vaughan agreed with him.

"Why, when the president fired Henry Wallace last week, one of the first things to come in was a wire from Tom Clark (the attorney general, who is from Texas), urging that Harry appoint Jesse Jones secretary of commerce."

Vaughan also remarked that state pride was especially strong among GI's overseas.

"Over in Potsdam last year," he said, "the president reviewed the 84th division — that's the Rail-splitter boys, mainly from Illinois and Kentucky. Well, the president, Jimmie Byrnes, General Bolling of the 84th and myself were riding in a car when someone mentioned that the 84th had been trained in Texas.

"The president and I started to kid Byrnes that everywhere we went we saw troops from Texas, Missouri, and other states, but that we hadn't heard of any Carolinians up near the front. We really laid it on thick.

"All of a sudden, the buck private driving our car just couldn't take it any more. He turned around to us and it sort of burst out of him:

"'I can't keep quiet any more. I'm a Carolinian — I live right across the street from Secretary Byrnes. And there are plenty more of us right up here.'

"We sure got a bang out of that kid. The president told General Bolling he was not to be disciplined for opening up, and then Jimmie Byrnes and this kid talked about South Carolina."

Stalin's War of Nerves.

Most interesting fact about Stalin's widely broadcast and widely - hailed - as - conciliatory statements to a London newsman last week is the date. The date was September 24.

For on exactly the same day Stalin was telling the world that there was no danger of another war, he was sending a note to Turkey which sang another tune.

The note to Turkey was not made public until four days later. Thus Stalin publicly put fears to rest, while simultaneously warning Turkey that she must yield to Russia on the Dardanelles and that she must permit Russian troops on Turkish soil. If not, the implied threat of war.

Thus, despite Stalin's attempt to woo the world, his aims remain exactly the same. Furthermore, they remain exactly the same as those of the czars before him. Finally, they remain today, with his allies, exactly the same as with his old sparring partner, Hitler.

For, in 1940, when Russia and Germany were under a nonaggression pact, the same Mr. Molotov now dickering in Paris went to Berlin to dicker with Ribbentrop for terms under which Russia would come into the war against England. The terms Molotov wanted were the Dardanelles, Iran, Iraq, the Balkans, and the mouth of the Red Sea. Hitler wouldn't give these terms, and Russia finally was forced into the war on the side of the Allies, not against them.

Now that the war is over, Stalin and Molotov are right back where they were in 1940—trying to get the Dardanelles and other long-range Russian objectives.

Panama vs. Dardanelles.

Many people are sympathetic with Russia's desire for an outlet from the Black Sea. They compare the Dardanelles to the Panama canal. This columnist, for one, believes Russia has every right to a guaranteed outlet to the sea.

However, the world has come a long way since the buccaneering days when Teddy Roosevelt euchered a lease on the Panama canal, and today the U. S. has been discussing joint western hemisphere defenses with Pan-American nations. Thus the time may come when a joint Pan-American army guards Panama, the Galapagos islands, and other strategic western hemisphere areas.

Russia, however, now goes back to cutthroat buccaneering, spurns the United Nations, and wages a war of nerves against Turkey to get what she wants.

That is why Russia, despite palliative statements by Stalin, is still a serious war hazard, and will continue to be until we have some way of ensuring peace by making friends with the Russian people.

The Wages of Aggressive Warfare Is Death

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

THE NUERNBERG international military tribunal has formulated what peacemakers for generations have been trying to persuade the world to accept—that conspiracy to commit aggressive war "is the supreme crime."

It's a notable circumstance that the court which makes this momentous ruling comprises representatives of the Big Four—America, Russia, Britain and France. They, more than any others, are responsible for world peace.

This verdict should strengthen the hand of the United Nations in dealing with threatened aggression. Perhaps we shall find that the benefit to the UN may be mainly psychological for the time being, until the great powers get through scrapping among themselves.

As things stand any one of the Big Four plus China—could block action against an aggressor by exercising the veto right which Russia has been employing so freely in all sorts of circumstances in the security council.

However, the tribunal's verdict that the wages of aggression is death should provide our new peace organization with a potentially powerful weapon.

We all but reached a similar verdict at the end of the first world conflict. The late David Lloyd George Britain's famous war-time prime minister, cried "hang the Kaiser' so loudly and persistently that he almost persuaded the powers to take action -but not quite. The world wasn't ready for such a step. It took Hitler's bloody attempt to enslave Europe to turn the trick.

Punishment of the individual conspirators is calculated to be a mighty deterrent to future aggression. Of course Germany's fearful beating has been a terrible lesson to the nation as a whole—and to the rest of the world for that matter—but such blanket punishment is too impersonal. We needed to deal with individuals to bring the thing home. As the verdict said:

"Crimes against international law are committed by men—not by abstract entities—and only by punishing individuals who commit such crimes can provisions of international law be enforced."

The Nuernberg verdict on individuals will be remembered long after Berlin has been rebuilt and folk have forgotten that it was laid in rubble.

Community Problems In Housing Shortage.

WASHINGTON — Despite the universally-admitted crisis and the constant controversy over the subject, you hear very little nowadays about the human side of the housing situation.

Everyone seems to look to national legislation for the solution, and while there is little doubt but that some such legislation is necessary, still it will not solve some foundational phases of the problem.

It can do little about (1) zoning restrictions, (2) sectional or group selfishness, and (3) the segregation situation.

Those will remain community problems, no matter what manner of legislation eventually is passed by the new congress—if any is.

Throughout the country, you find the zoning problem is one of the greatest difficulties standing in the way of the veteran who wishes to build himself a home.

He has trouble enough managing to get the money, materials and man-power with which to build that home. But once those roadblocks are passed, what next confronts him?

Perhaps he wants to live in a fairly respectable and quiet residential sector, so he buys a lot in such a spot, planning to build his $7,500 home there.

But suddenly he is informed that there is a zoning regulation restricting the construction of anything less than a $10,000 home in that sector. Or perhaps it's a $15,000 zone.

He's simply out of luck. Of course, had he been smart, he would have checked the community for zoning restrictions before he bought. Even so, what would he have found in countless cities?

"The only places I found to build within the bracket I could afford," one veteran told this correspondent bitterly, "was right next to the railroad tracks or else so far out of town that we couldn't get utilities or transportation."

He didn't build—although his city now is considering some relaxation of the zoning restrictions to take care of such situations.

Many cities currently are taking such steps, but it is shocking to discover how many residents in the better residential areas still bitterly battle against any such moves.

The segregation of minority groups in the matter of building new homes is almost universal, even though veterans remember that their draft boards were quite broad-minded and tolerant when it came to taking members of all races, colors and creeds.

Without delving into the social aspect of segregation itself, its physical phases alone seem usually unfair—that is, the minority group veteran too often finds he can build a home only in the scummy, crummy section of town.

You don't have to be a radical or a fanatic to find this very common situation somewhat regrettable—especially when you remember that overseas it was not considered bad taste to bury them all side by side.

These things are not reported merely in critical or crusading bitterness, but only to remind communities of America that no national legislation can solve the entire housing crisis.

The human side of the problem remains with you.

Thomas L. Stokes

Feeling the Public Pulse In South Dakota.

IN SOUTH DAKOTA—This is a good place to probe the state of mind of the middle of America. Also, it is sufficiently detached to take a look, through the eyes of its people, back upon the rest of the world and the seat of government at Washington.

It was that, and the opportunity to renew friendships, that induced me to stop for a couple of days to observe and listen.

The view of Washington and the world as seen through the eyes of people out this way, is none too cheerful. Yet they are enjoying such prosperity as was unimaginable a few years back when this country was died out and impoverished by a searing drought.

Their outlook is clouded now perhaps by their own immediate troubles. But these seem to the passing traveler much less onerous than in other areas. They are magnified, as elsewhere, by war weariness and postwar tensions. Most of the troubles they trace back to the confused course of government at Washington, to continued regulations that however necessary, seem to be most hap-hazardly administered in some instances. These affect their agriculture and cattle-raising.

As elsewhere there is observed an intensified resentment to outside interference now that they are prosperous once more and renewed resistance to the social trends of government in recent years.

The present mood is something that often goes with sudden prosperity after long hardship. It is human and understandable. It is a disease that grips all America, with selfishness at the core, and undoubtedly it will pass—if it doesn't go away too late, so that we lose our way meanwhile.

To the traveler from the congested east where people live so close together, where there are more sources of discord, where pettiness is more tempting, it seems a bit out of character here. The horizons are so wide here. There is fresh air to breathe, room to move around, friendliness of small towns and farms.

I was conscious of all that when I stepped off the train at Mitchell into glaring sunshine and a sky which seemed so open because there was so much of it. And there was the familiar face and warm hand-clasp of W. R. Ronald, the editor who for years has been active here and nationally for farmers and for progressive measures in general.

Mitchell was in the midst of her corn palace carnival, the annual autumn celebration traditional here since the turn of the century. It centers in the corn palace, a big gaily-decorated building in the middle of town where there are exhibits and a vaudeville show for the many thousands who come from the whole region. One street was blocked off for the midway. People visited with friends from far away. The spirit of holiday was everywhere.

It was pleasant to spend the afternoon with Mr. Ronald and members of his staff. It was pleasant, too, at the end of the day to meet another friend, one of long-standing, Bob Lusk, the alert and influential Huron newspaper publisher, and to drive with him the 50 miles to Huron, to spend the evening at his home. The next day it was good to meet the people on the newspaper, to see the sights and have lunch with some businessmen, directors of the Huron Chamber of Commerce. There was talk there of the forthcoming pheasant season which attracts 100,000 hunters to the state from all parts of the country.

As we drove to Huron straight into a gorgeously speckled sky at dusk, Bob and I recalled the days, long ago, when we worked together in Washington during the Coolidge administration on the United Press night-side under the late Ray Clapper.

Those calm days under Cal Coolidge seem remote now. Everything looked simpler then, though we found out later, when the depression hit, that it wasn't.

The corrosive influences were at work underneath, some of them right out here through lack of attention to the farm problem. And they were at work also all over the world, as we learned long after when war broke out in Europe for the second time in our generation.

Rockets Over Europe Promote Hysteria.

STOCKHOLM — The most extraordinary phenomenon of postwar Europe is the reports of flying bombs or rockets that are now beginning to come from widely separated areas.

If they are real, then we have a small sample of what the next conflict will be like. If they are mere illusion, then we have an example of the uneasy state of mind of the people who live on this troubled continent.

The rockets were first reported in numbers from Sweden, where you would assume that the cautious and even-tempered population, untouched by the direct tragedy of war, would not be subject to random nightmares. Next were vague reports of fire bombs over Athens at the time of the visit of the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt. More recently, rockets have been reported over Italian cities and the Italian government has ordered an investigation.

I have talked to many people here about the flying bombs. Some put the whole thing down to postwar hysteria. Others take a serious view of what they call, half in jest, "Russian hail."

One thoroughly reliable American observer with whom I talked saw flying bombs in broad daylight over this city. It was a cigar-shaped object which streaked across the sky with great speed and seemed on the point of shooting eastward. Careful Swedish observers have seen what they believed to be rockets.

Official opinion is that nothing is really known about the phenomenon, which has now more or less subsided. Recently, at any rate, very few reports of bombs have been received. If the government has found any fragments, that fact is being kept a careful secret.

The soundest opinion seems to me to be this: The Russians on the island of Peenemunde, off the German coast in the Baltic, are probably experimenting with televised rockets. They must send them over a fairly long distance in order to make an adequate test.

It could be embarrassing to shoot them into British or American zones. Sweden has large forest areas with sparse population. This is therefore a good target area, since a small country would hesitate over making a protest to a large country in any event.

That any political motivation lies behind the "Russian hail" is most unlikely. This somehow makes the phenomenon, if it is actually a weapon of war, more terrifying. It has an impersonal, emotionless quality that disregards human values which have been painfully built up through the centuries.

It resembled the action of the Soviets in the fall of 1938, when thousands of Poles fled into Russia to escape from the Nazis. Many of them were professional men and intellectuals with their families. They were put in forest camps in the dead of winter with pitifully inadequate clothing and food, and they died in an average of three weeks.

There was no special hostility toward these people, but there was no place for them to go and in the camps they contributed little work before they died.

Psychologists do not, of course, discount the remarkable suggestibility of the human mind in periods of great stress. Before the rise of Nazism with its sinister accompaniment of mass hypnosis, we liked to think we were living in an age of reason and could not be touched by spells and hysteria that formerly swept whole populations.

In the year 1000 large numbers of Europeans became convinced that the world was ending and strange forms of mass hysteria occurred throughout the continent.

Perhaps the "Russian hail" was only a stray meteor or two magnified by tragic fears that feed on the mysteries of science. How many years must pass before we can hope to see the peoples of the world back to anything like normal?

Farmer's Diary: "Seeding Wheat."

ON THIS October morning, across the autumn hills, I passed a well-disked cornstalk field, where long even rows of large shocks stood, like giants of the land. For a half mile they stretched, strong and green, with that sweetish peculiar odor of the maize heavy on the air.

The farmer had already hauled his fertilizer and his wheat on the heavy-duty trailer, with his tractor. As I went by I saw the broad 16-hoe drill bite into the soft loose earth and make long straight rows where the grain and fertilizer fell. The soil was dark and moist and the little ridges made were etched like steel corrugations. Tractor and drill moved with great ease and power—the farmer told me that with every round, he planted an acre, and it took him 15 minutes. Seeding 40 acres would be only one short routine job—one good day's work of 10 hours.

Eastward, another farmer was sowing wheat with a smaller—a ten-hoe-drill. The dark bay team moved briskly westward. The driver kept near the wheel track and carefully guided his team that no lost space appeared. All along the end were scattered alternating bags of wheat and fertilizer.

I watched the team, the drill, the man grow smaller as they reached the farther end. I heard the long bent lever slip into the ratchet before he turned. It was an excellent job. The path of sowing was almost as straight as if he had used a rule.

"Nice work," I said, when the man returned.

"Hi ——yeah, this is about the 30th time I've planted wheat on this farm . . . but it don't pay like it used to. All the neighbors say the same. Crops don't turn out so well, on the whole. Guess maybe the land's wearin' out . . . but I've farmed too long to take up with the new-fangled notions. 'Twouldn't seem like me to plow scallops around my fields like some does."

Along a byroad, I saw an old farmer with a gray beard, planting three acres of wheat. He had an old horse, gray and weary like himself, hitched to a wooden crossbeam harrow with steel pegs driven through. The field had been harrowed smooth, and the horse stood, head down, waiting at one corner of the patch.

With a sack slung from one shoulder, the old man scattered the grain by hand, in rhythmic swing and step. Blackbirds and crows and pigeons followed after . . . each scattered handful was magnified against the morning sun.

He belonged to another generation . . . a different age. He belonged to all the centuries that have passed. With his rough bag and his hard old hands, and the old hard way of seeding, he yet enriched my memory in a way I would not willingly forget.

Dave Boone Says:

IN NEW YORK an associate superintendent of schools ordered the Lord's Prayer dropped from high-school exercises. That helps to give an answer to the question of what's wrong with the kids these days.

* * *

In a day when every force for evil is given the green light and all the agencies working against the development of character are open to the children in this country, a school official decides that the thing to drop is a prayer!

* * *

He says he did it on a complaint "to avoid public controversy." Public controversy on a matter of this importance will be pretty helpful. No child was ever harmed by prayer.

* * *

There was a time in this country when every session of school from kindergarten up was opened with the Lord's Prayer and "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." Comparing the two types of citizenship then and now, it don't seem to me to have been a big mistake.

Food Prices in Argentina.

Unhappy Americans, sitting down at their meatless tables and recalling the astronomical prices they must pay for what they are allowed to buy under the nation's current burden of planned inflation, may add to their misery by consideration of food prices in Argentina.

A correspondent in Buenos Aires lists choice beef at 20 cents a pound; eggs, 20 cents a dozen; milk, six cents a quart; cheese, 15 cents a pound; flour, three cents a pound, and sugar, five cents a pound.

He adds, just to make it a little tougher for his long - suffering American readers, that food prices in Argentina have advanced 20 per cent in the last two years!—Columbus Dispatch.
